Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-9, 11-14 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Oike in view of George.

Oike discussed a handle having a hollow shell as the plastic/resin wood-grain finish discussed column 1, lines 51-53; and the specific foam fillings discussed in column 1, line 47, column 2, line 68 – column 3, line 1 and column 3, line 27. Oike lacks the handle being a tap handle, the material for the outer shell, and the details of the handle structure. George shows a tap handle 70 having an open end as seen in Figure 2 and a ferrule with threads that attaches to threaded post 72 as seen in Figure

2. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to make other handle structures like the tap of George with the materials of Oike in order to make a tap that is inexpensive and resistant to damage. The specific materials for the shell would have been obvious based on aesthetic considerations and the desired strength of the shell. Finally, employing glue in the open part of the shell would have been obvious in order to better and more permanently attach the handle to the remaining portion of the valve.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claim 10 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
4. Claim 19 is allowed.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 11/14/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that the woodgrain finish of Oike is applied over the foam and not injected into it. As this is a product by process limitation and the claimed structure is formed by another process, the method of making is not given weight in the apparatus claim. This same argument applies to new claim 20.

Applicant further contends that Oike teaches away from using the traditional tap materials. The combination of the references would clearly teach multiple materials based on the intended use of the item.

Applicant contends that there is nothing in the references to substantiate the motivation statements put forth by the examiner. Motivation can be and in this case is implicit in the references and the general art. For example, it is logical that one would look to the desired appearance of the article to pick a material suitable to that appearance.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

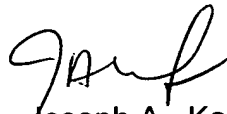

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
